

Leo DeBandi is the Vice President, Analytics, Production and Inventory Planning, Biomedical Services, American Red Cross. His responsibilities include organizational production planning for the blood product supply chain, finished product inventory management, and consolidated data analytics. Leo has been with the American Red Cross for over twenty years. Leo is an original member and currently serving as the Vice Chair of the AABB Disaster Task Force. Prior to the American Red Cross, Leo worked for Merck and Co., Inc. Leo is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy and served as an officer in the Marine Corps.

